

KINDERGARTEN TEAM NEWS

JANUARY

Week of 1/11-1/15

Parent Info: I am so excited to be back at school!!! I am happy to be back in the classroom with the students and can't wait to start this new year with them. I had hoped to Zoom with the class last week but was unable to as I was not feeling well, but I know that they were in good hands with Miss Pat and I was in constant contact with her.

We will be working on reading groups this week as we are further behind then I had hoped, at this point in the year. The students are working on forming sentences on their own and writing them on the paper. It is a hard thing to do and we will continue to practice.

This week we will be working on...

Reading/Phonics: We are going to start working on putting things in alphabetical order. We will work on various lists of words. We will continue trying to spell words by stretching out the word. I know that this has been on my peek a lot but we need to keep practicing as some of us find it difficult to hear all the sounds.

Math: We will be finishing up Unit 6. The students are working hard on this unit. We will do a review and have our assessment at the beginning of this week and will start our new topic.

Writing: The students are working really hard on writing sentences. They find it difficult to come up with sentences and write them on their own, but we will be working on this a lot more in the upcoming weeks. We are working on using capital letters and punctuation along with making spaces between words.

SS/Science: We will be discussing Martin Luther King Jr this week along with continuing with Miss Dianne's science activity -Nocturnal animals. We will also be starting our discussion on Hibernation and Migration.

Sight Word: Most of the class are currently on our 3rd list. This means the students are working hard and are currently working towards 30 sight words already. They need to go over the sight words (current and past lists) each night as part of their homework. It will help them as they read or write. For those students on another list keep working hard
